

FICTION

Bigger Than 9/11

Everyone was convulsed by the Planes Operation on 9/11. No one heard about the Black Stone Plot. It was to take place on the very same day — September 11, 2001. It failed. The key co-conspirator escaped the collapse of the Twin Towers. He's back and ready to try again. The time could be a year away — or one second from now. The clock is ticking . . .

Madeline Anthony-Pratt climbs over the wall to her neighbor's house one night to retrieve her cat. Intruders appear. She hides in the shadows. They whisper in a foreign tongue and hold out a Pepsi can with black crud on it. They light a match.

Why are they trying to blow up her neighbor's house tonight? The men aren't telling as the match gets closer to the wick.

This is no ordinary plot. It's bigger than 9/11 and far more devastating. The Black Stone Plot has been two thousand years in the making.

Praise for Linda Cargill's To Follow the Goddess:
"An auspicious beginning — and a delightful read"
— The Kirkus Reviews

Cheops Books
8746 E Wallen Ridge Dr
Tucson, AZ 85710
www.cheopsbooks.org

Cover Photo by www.bigfoto.com

$19.95

Cargill

The Black Stone

The

Black Stone

Linda Cargill

he's back